Downtown Coatesville-East Route

1

Scott Middle School

Scott Middle School was named after Dr. Samuel Horace Scott, a prominent Coatesville physician and philanthropist in the early 1900's. The school was originally named Scott Senior High School in honor of Dr. Scott's 54 years and 6 months of service on the Coatesville School Board. The building later became a middle school in the Coatesville Area School District.

2

Victor Abdala, Sr. Park

One of the City of Coatesville's eight parks, Victor Abdala, Sr. Park spans 3.1 acres and features lighted softball and football fields and a playground.

3

Scott Field

The Scott Field complex includes a stadium with an athletic field and track, a baseball and a softball diamond, and tennis courts. Once the site of the great Downingtown vs. Coatesville Thanksgiving Day football rivalry game, today Scott Field is home to many youth athletic associations within the Coatesville region.

4

Paul Palmer Park

One of the City of Coatesville's eight parks, the 1.1 acre Paul Palmer Park features a community swimming pool, playground, and pavilion with two barbecue grills.

5

Clement Atkinson Memorial Hospital

Founded in 1936 by Dr. Whitaker C. Atkinson, the first African American president of the Chester County Medical Society, the Clement Atkinson Memorial Hospital provided quality care to all regardless of ability to pay. Today, the building is home to the W.C. Atkinson Memorial Community Services Center.
