Summary

- Yaomiao Children’s Rhinestone Silver Tiaras are being recalled because the red rhinestones embedded in the tiaras contain levels of lead that exceed the federal lead content ban.
- This recall involves the rhinestone silver tiara with red rhinestones that was sold in a package with three other tiara styles that are not included in the recall, including blue, purple, and clear rhinestones. The four tiara styles were sold and shipped together in the same cardboard packaging marked “Yaomiao.”
- They were sold exclusively online at Amazon.com from January 2021 through November 2023 for about $19 for the set of four. Approximately 12,440 were sold.
- Consumers should immediately take the recalled tiaras away from children, stop using them and contact LordRoadS for a refund. LordRoadS and Amazon are contacting all known purchasers.
- Consider testing children for lead exposure from these and other sources.
- Please visit the Consumer Product Safety Commission’s website to view the lead recall and share it with your networks.
- For more information on childhood lead exposure in Pennsylvania, visit Lead \(pa.gov\), or contact DOH at 1-877-PA-HEALTH if you have any questions.

Background

Lead exposure can have serious health consequences, especially for children and pregnant women. Lead is ubiquitous in the environment, and unfortunately, we cannot see, taste or smell lead. Lead is much more harmful to children and during pregnancy because it can affect a child's developing nervous system and brain.

On January 25, 2024, Yaomiao Children's Rhinestone Silver Tiaras by LordRoadS were recalled because the red rhinestones embedded in the tiaras contain levels of lead that exceed the federal lead content ban.

Approximately 12,440 units were sold exclusively online at Amazon.com from January 2021 through November 2023 for about $19 for the set of four.

This recall involves the rhinestone silver tiara with red rhinestones that was sold in a package with three other tiara styles that are not included in the recall, including blue, purple, and clear rhinestones. The four tiara styles were sold and shipped together in the same cardboard packaging marked "Yaomiao."

Consumers should immediately take the recalled tiaras away from children, stop using them and contact LordRoadS for a refund. LordRoadS and Amazon are contacting all known purchasers.

Recommendations associated with this recall

- Review recall information including pictures of the specific item being recalled. This information is available on the CPSC's website.
- Providers should raise awareness about the recalled products among parents.
- Encourage parents to immediately stop using the recalled products and contact LordRoadS for a full refund. The company can be reached by email at simlordroadple@163.com.
- Consider blood lead testing for children or those who are pregnant or lactating if they are exposed to these and other lead sources.
- Laboratories and health care providers are required to report all blood lead test results, regardless of the lead level, for persons under 16 years of age to DOH through Pennsylvania's electronic disease surveillance system, PA-NEDSS.
